

PROFIT OR SERVICE?

ATTORNEY FREDERICK BAKER'S
PAPER, "THE MUNICIPALITY AS A PUBLIC SERVANT"

Another authority on this subject, "Modern Cities" by Horatio M. Pollock and Wm. S. Morgan, says:

"The corruption of municipalities by public service corporations is far-reaching. It affects not only the character of the public service, but every department of the city. Growth is checked, few public improvements are made, sanitary precautions are neglected and disease and crime increase. Corporations may accomplish their ends and grow rich by despoiling the city, but the people are gradually growing wiser. Those inside the unfortunate city may not be able to change matters or get out, but those on the outside are likely to hesitate before coming in. Whenever a choice is possible to the person taking up his residence in a city, or engaging in business in a city, he will naturally go to the town that offers the most attractive conditions of life. Few men, except through necessity, will choose to take up their abode in a corporation-ridden, boss-cursed community. As the progressive young people of such a town will seek their fortunes elsewhere, the failure of the town to grow is readily comprehended. One may almost pick out the cities owned by the public service corporations by a study of the census statement of comparative growth, birth-rates and death-rates. There may be other things besides corporate domination that will kill a town, but there is no one thing that does it so effectually or so often.

It is not strange, therefore, that students of city life in America are giving heed to this great question of securing adequate public service at reasonable rates and of keeping the control of such utilities in the hands of the people."

This is the dark side of the picture, showing the results of farming out to private corporations, by granting franchises, what are essentially public functions.

On the other hand, the authorities fully support my position as to the beneficial effect on municipal life of the municipality performing these functions for itself. In the work of Frederic C. Howe, quoted above, he says:

"The most important gains from municipal ownership are not financial but political and ethical. Through ownership the city will be freed from the conflict of interest which now divorces much of its talent from the public service. This conflict remains ever under regulation; it becomes most acute when regulation is most efficient. Partisanship is kept alive to be used against an administration which interferes with these interests, while the press is subsidized and the agencies of public opinion controlled to maintain the invisible powers referred to in the preceding chapter. And this conflict can only be terminated when the cause of it is removed and the city itself is possessed of the privileges in whose preservation the wealth and power of the city is interested. Then the talent of the city will be free to want good government. Men will then be in a position to aspire to public office and promote the city's well-being. In addition the city will become such an important agency, the activities which it owns will be of such transcendent interest, that men of power will desire place not only in administrative positions but in the council as well. Further than this, a city which serves its citizens in many ways, which touches their lives daily and hourly, will awaken interest on the part of all classes. There will be an economic and social nexus between the voter and the city which will supply the strongest possible motive for good government."

In a recent book, "American Municipal Progress," by Zueblin, which contains an exhaustive study of present municipal conditions in this country, is the following on this subject:

"It is an illuminating phenomenon that the contrast between the efficiency of British and German municipal administration and American inefficiency, coincides with the wide-awake municipal ownership in those countries and its limitation in America. There is a constant effort in America to improve the machinery of municipal government without employing the dynamic, which has made for successful administration in Europe. The effort in American cities has been to eliminate the spoils and introduce business administration. This has led to admirable economies, but it is a poor makeshift for democratic administration. That can only

STORY OF A COLLAR

LAUNDRY WORK NECESSARY FOR SPOTLESS NECKWEAR

When your collar comes home from the laundry with its companions neatly done up and without spot or wrinkle have you ever given a thought to the amount of energy that has been expended about that result? If not then read what W. E. Hewitt, proprietor and manager of the Glendale Laundry has to tell about it:

"There is quite a complicated set of operations necessary," said Mr. Hewitt. "Before the nicely rounded and beautifully starched and ironed collars are delivered to their respective owners, in number, quality and size the same as when delivered to the laundry's agent at your door.

"To begin with at a certain hour of the day the drivers of the laundry wagons leave the laundry and begin to visit their routes. You, as one of our customers are properly listed in his book and your financial transactions with the laundry are kept in careful record there. The wagon man picks up your laundry, which you have ready for him and having gone his rounds, your bundle, with those belonging to hundreds of others, is handed in at the bundle counter.

"At the bundle counter the listers count your collars and enter them on a list. They then go to the marker who sees that they are properly marked for identification, ties them together and sends them on to the washman. They are then placed in a washing machine with properly prepared soap and water, the steam is turned on and as the machine revolves the collars are thoroughly cleansed. When the process has been finished the collars are taken to the centrifugal wringer which whirls them round at an enormous velocity and thus throws every drop of water out of them.

"The starcher then takes hold of them and with thousands of others they are starched with great care, by means of a starching machine which gives the requisite amount of starch that has been mixed to the exact consistency desired.

"Girls then take charge of them and smooth out all the wrinkles with practised hands. Thence they go to the drying racks in the dry rooms and when perfectly dry are taken down and run through a damping machine to dampen them evenly.

"The next process is to iron them. This is done by means of steam-heated padded roll ironers. Thence they go to the shaping machine. The seams are first dampened to prevent them from cracking, a machine then smoothes the edges and steam-heated tubes shape them.

"Thence they go to the sorting room and are sorted according to the customer's mark and placed on a shelf with other goods preparatory to checking. The collars are then placed where they belong and then each bundle is taken down separately and checked on the checking table. Then the wrapper wraps them up nicely. Each driver gets the bundles for his particular route and starts off to deliver them. The result of all these processes is the nicely-done-up collars you wear."

SOCIAL THURSDAY EVENING

All members and friends of the Glendale Garden society are invited to a social meeting on Thursday evening in the library of the Third street school. Professor Houdysell, expert on Iris and Gladioli, will talk on Iris culture. Informal discussions will be held on the planting of narcissi bulbs this month for the floral contest next March, for which silver cups are offered. Tea will be served by Mrs. H. C. Barnard and Mrs. T. Stephens, two charming young society matrons; and Mrs. Herman West has graciously promised to render some delightful music. This society meeting is free to all; new comers to Glendale, and residents interested in flowers, landscape effects, nature in any form, are especially welcomed. Come and get acquainted with congenial minds. Headquarters of the Garden society are maintained at 1111 Broadway, Glendale; come in and visit.

LITERARY SECTION

The Literary section of the Tuesday Afternoon club will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. A. L. Weaver, 235 South Kenwood street. Mrs. William Ramsay, curator, desires a large attendance since important policies for the new year will be adopted. Mrs. H. D. Goss will give a review of American Literary Pathfinders followed by readings among them, "Sally Ann's Experience." Topics will be assigned for the year.

FRENCH BREAK THROUGH GERMAN DEFENCE

GEN. FOCH'S MEN PENETRATE STRONG TEUTON WORKS
NORTHEAST OF COMBLES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
PARIS, Oct. 16.—After careful preparatory shelling by the French 75's the troops of General Foch's army advanced under the protection of a curtain of fire on the German trenches and field works at Saily. A brilliant rush brought them to the works which they carried without great loss. The trenches captured are to the northeast of Combles. The sector between Belloy-en-Santerre and Chaulnes was the subject of German counter attacks which broke down under the French curtain of fire.

WOULD DESTROY AUSTRIA AS A STATE

WAR MINISTER BISOLETTI DECLARES GERMAN IDEAS OF WORLD DOMINATION MUST BE DISSIPATED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
ROME, Oct. 16.—"Austria must be destroyed as a state," said Benjamin Bisoletti, Italian minister of war to an interviewer today. "Germany also must be compelled to give up the idea that she can dominate the world. When these objects shall have been accomplished that for which the Allies are fighting will have been fulfilled," he added.

CRETE SETS UP NATIONALIST GOVERNMENT

ISLAND REPUDIATES THE RULE OF KING CONSTANTINE
AND LOOKS FORWARD TO NEW ERA

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
LONDON, Oct. 16.—Matters in the Island of Crete have so far progressed that the islanders who revolted against King Constantine some time ago have set up a Nationalist government. The Venizelos party has recognized this movement and will support it. Meanwhile King Constantine issues manifestoes in which he claims to have saved Greece from the fate of Serbia.

GREEKS IN AMERICA FAVOR NATIONALISTS

AMERICAN HELLENES DECLARE FOR THE VENIZELOS
PARTY AND FORM NATION-WIDE ORGANIZATION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Greeks in this city of whom there is a large colony, have been holding meetings recently for the purpose of taking action with regard to the situation in Greece. Yesterday they organized what is to be a nation-wide organization of Greeks. This is really a Greek Venizelos party. It favors the entrance of Greece into the war on the side of the Allies.

TEUTON ARMY BREAKS INTO ROUMANIA

LARGE GERMAN FORCES ARE BEING HURRIED TO ROU-
MANIAN FRONTIER TO CRUSH THAT COUNTRY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
LONDON, Oct. 16.—The Teuton army that has been driving at the Roumanian frontier has broken through the defense at Gyimes Pass and is now pouring into Northwestern Roumania. It is Von Hindenburg's idea to send as many men as possible to the scene of Roumanian fighting and to crush that country completely before winter sets in. If he can do this he hopes to turn on the Russians and crush them.

BRITISH PENETRATE BULGARIAN LINES

ADVANCE IN MACEDONIA BRINGS ON SMART FIGHTING
BETWEEN ALLIES AND BULGARS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
LONDON, Oct. 16.—There was some smart fighting today between British troops advancing in Macedonia and the Bulgarians who are slowly retreating on Monastir. The British advance guard penetrated the Bulgarian lines and captured the village of Bursuk. The Bulgarians suffered severe losses. At the same time the French advanced and drove the Bulgarians back along a considerable front and pushed farther north.

BELIEVED U-53 HAS LEFT ATLANTIC COAST

SUDDEN DROP IN LLOYD'S MARINE INSURANCE RATES
SHOWS BELIEF THAT SEA IS SAFE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)
LONDON, Oct. 16.—It is now believed that the German submarine U-53, which has been sinking merchant ships on the Atlantic coast, has left that region and is now on the way home. This belief was confirmed here today by the action of Lloyd's, the great marine insurance agency, which announced a reduction in marine insurance on vessels going across the Atlantic from forty shillings to twenty shillings.

W. C. T. U. SYMPOSIUM

ENTHUSIASTIC WHITE RIBBON-
ERS PLAN TO TAKE PART IN TWO DRY PARADES

An enthusiastic group of White Ribboners met at the home of Mrs. Clara Pettit, 517 South Louise street Friday p. m., in special campaign meeting. Plans were laid for entering floats in the mammoth dry parade to be given in Los Angeles, November 4. Also for representation by floats and marchers in the Glendale parade for California dry, evening of November 6. A large number of adults and children will participate.

A symposium on "Why I shall vote to make California dry on November 7," was very ably conducted by Mrs. Opal Greenwalt. Some of the reasons given were, I shall vote for California dry "because it is the only reasonable thing for an intelligent individual to do. Scientists declare that alcohol is a racial poison so deadly in its effects that its indulgence by one generation is disastrous to the generations to follow."

I shall vote dry "because the testimony of men prominent in the commercial life of the prohibition states convince me that the drink evil is the greatest economic handicap of the civilized world."

I shall vote yes on amendments Nos. 1 and 2 "because I believe what criminologists and sociologists tell me, that the alcohol habit is the cause of from sixty to ninety per cent of all crime, and I dare not take the responsibility of helping to continue such a crime-propagating institution."

I shall vote dry on November 7 "because I believe it is my bounden duty, as a christian patriot, to make safe and clean the public highways for the boys and girls who are growing up in our midst."

I shall cast my vote for California dry "because I consider it a high privilege to participate in the great movement that is sweeping from America and the world a business that menaces the home and retards the progress of civilization."

Mrs. Mottern said: "I want California to go dry because of my boy and girl. My boy is small now and as he grows to manhood I want him to have about him the environment of a clean sober state, free from saloon temptations; and I don't want my daughter to marry a man who may secretly be addicted to the drink habit and so blight and crush her life as so many are doing."

Mrs. B. D. Snudden gave from her experience as a pastor's wife many sad and awful incidents that had come under her observation, and wanted California dry not for herself but for others, and for some of whom she knew in beautiful Glendale. We may be dry in Glendale but are too near Los Angeles and its temptations to allow the curse to live.

Mrs. Smart said she had been told by a prominent business man of Glendale that many young men of Glendale come home in the night hours under the influence of drink obtained in Los Angeles. No home is safe from the nefarious traffic, and God has said "Come out from among them and be ye separate."

There were present two visitors from Los Angeles, and one of them said she had suffered for thirty years from having her arm thrust into the fire by a drunken father, and that none know the torments that those suffer who live with men who drink.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. W. F. Wood, 500 East Third street, on Eagle Rock car line, October 20, beginning at 2 p. m. The seven propositions on the ballot will be discussed by different speakers. Open meeting to all. Neighbors are specially invited.

SHOT BY HIS FRIEND

While out shooting in the Saugus country, Paul J. McGuire of 3105 South Figueroa street, Los Angeles, was accidentally shot by his friend and companion, Mr. Sutton, also of Los Angeles. The two men were tramping over the hills when Sutton stumbled, his shotgun being suddenly discharged. The charge struck McGuire in the face. Sutton went for assistance and the wounded man was being conveyed to a house, but died on the road. Scovern-Letton & Frey of Tropic were sent for and took charge of the body.

SHOWERS IN COMPLIMENT TO AUTUMN BRIDES—BIRTH-DAY CELEBRATION

UNIQUE SHOWER PARTY

One of the most unique, beautifully planned and executed shower parties ever given in Glendale was that given Friday evening in honor of Miss Agnes Frostick, who left Monday morning for Boston, where she will become the bride of Fred Brewster. The entertainment was given at the home of Mrs. Arline Hallihan, 1010 Lomita avenue by a group of Miss Frostick's girl friends. The dining room was tastefully decorated with all the ghostly symbols of the Halloween season. The table was cleverly adorned with black cats, owls and witches. A beautiful repast was served and mirth and merriment prevailed. Above the dining table were suspended articles of a kitchen shower and others decorated the walls.

When the kitchen shower had been presented the girls presented Miss Frostick with a miscellaneous shower of useful and beautiful articles. She was also presented with a fine picture of Christ. At the close of the banquet the guests played cards and amused themselves in other ways. Those present were:

Mrs. Gus Herman, Ethel Land, Ethel Read, Clara Provolt, Olga Purt, Athena Purt, Mrs. Bannock, Ella Wall, Irene Read, Charlotte Read, Bess Provolt, Amy Bowerfind, Fay Morse Wells, Clara Read, Gertrude Champlain, Mattie Belle Provolt, Cecelia Wilson, Grace Cramp-ton, Mrs. Arline Hallihan.

Mrs. Hallihan was assisted by Miss Heiman, Mattie Belle Provolt and Mrs. Wells.

IN HONOR OF MISS BORTHICK

On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Asa V. Fanset and her daughter, Mrs. Hazen Collins, entertained at the Fanset home, 133 North Louise street for Miss Ruby Borthick, the popular October bride-elect. The decorations were yellow and white, huge chrysanthemums used throughout the rooms. Victrola music of the very best made happy the guests, and after having a cupid tea game, the prizes won by Miss Cora Ward and Mrs. Ira Tucker, the main event of the afternoon appeared in the form of a new suitcase full to overflowing of miscellaneous gifts for the charming Miss Ruby. Every drop of the shower was lovely to see and told of the endearing thoughts for the coming bride. And then the enjoyment of the afternoon was added to by Mrs. C. W. Heinen who gave two clever recitations.

A delightful three course luncheon followed at tables artistically decorated in yellow and white.

The invited friends who wished much happiness and joy for Miss Borthick, were Mesdames A. M. Beamon, F. Bickford, George Byram, Albert Cornwell, E. K. Daniels, Hugo Ekstein of Modesto, E. F. Heisser, C. W. Heinen, A. F. Hubbard, J. L. Kirkham, Robert Knoche, Minnie Pickering, Warren Roberts, Mable Rudy, Henry Story, Ira Tucker and Elijah Zerr. Misses Margaret Bowen of Modesto, Mable Benson, Ruby and Harriet Bickford, Fredonia Borthick, Gertrude Bond, Bessie and Daisy Cassells, Carrie and May Cornwell, Blanche Davenport, Della Echols, Lillian Eaton, Lulu Hughes, Katherine Kurkham, Enola McElvain, Lena and Louise Potter, Eulalia Richardson, Lillian and Birdie Lee Shropshire, Ruth Strode, Josephine Wilkes, Cora Ward, Little Mable Ruby Collins, Master Laurence Bickford and Baby Daniels.

Miss Borthick will have a quiet home wedding on October 21, and will marry Logan Bowen of Modesto. After a wedding journey they will make their home on Mr. Logan's ranch near Modesto.

BIRTHDAY MASQUERADE

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Berry, 1437 West Third street gave a surprise masquerade party in honor of their daughter, Pauline's eleventh birthday on Friday evening of last week. The rooms were decorated in orange and black with witches, ghosts and pumpkins, the table decorations corresponded. The evening was spent in games and prizes were awarded the winners. One of the features was a "stunt" program to which everyone present contributed a "stunt." A marshmallow roast was also an enjoyable part of the evening's fun. The guests were Murray Longley, Gertrude Coward, Eunice Caldwell, Isabel Franklin, Mildred Cole, Agnes Caldwell, Mildred Sawyer, Marjorie Yarik, Margaret Longley, Nellie Lore, Denise Berry, and the young hostess, Pauline Berry.

MORE MEXICAN DIVISION

Mexico is a striking example of the "dissidence of dissent." The moment the strong hand of Diaz relaxed through old age and the corrupt circle that surrounded him got control of the country the process of selling the country for gold to undeservers went merrily on. This produced the revolt. The peons, ground into the dust by the officials, were eager to join in a revolt that promised better times. That brought Madero to the front. Madero, a former classmate of President Wilson, was a man of high ideals. He was progressive and with a progressive platform. That he should have been placed in Mexico and asked to try to set that unhappy country to rights was a most unfortunate thing for him.

Madero detested bloodshed. He hated oppression and tyranny of all kinds and was not fit to deal with a corrupt gang such as young Diaz, Huerta and their respective entourages. From the moment that he set foot in Mexico City after the flight of Diaz he showed himself unfit to cope with men of that stamp. Had he been capable of handling the situation he should have taken young Diaz and Huerta and a few more of the plotters and put them to death.

As Madero did not deal with Huerta and young Diaz in that fashion it was not long before they applied the "ley fuga" to him and had him shot on the pretense that he was attempting to escape. Huerta, a strong ruler, might have brought the people under the old stern rule, but the opposition of President Wilson killed his chances. Carranza is a gentleman, but full of the old Castilian pride, touchy and difficult to advise. His recognition by President Wilson acted on Villa like a madness and brought about the raid on Columbus, N. M., whether Villa was there or not.

Now we note the dissidence of dissent. One division brings about another. Each sect splits up and reproduces others and so it goes on and will go on ad infinitum or until the strong hand of some strong man or strong power puts an end to the trouble. The latest split in Mexico is known as the Legalista party. Already it is fighting with Carranza. Mexico is now in the hands of the Carranzistas, Villistas, Zapatistas and Legalistas. There are also parties who favor Obregon and a host of independent raiders and brigands like the Alvarez brothers who are making a living by robbing the country and carrying off their booty to their mountain fastnesses.

It is truly a most pitiful state of affairs. Under it all the miserable peon, held as a bond slave; paid little or nothing for his work; getting little to eat; daily beaten and bruised and killed outright, sometimes when he is no longer able to work, is the one who suffers. There is no ray of hope in his life. If the peon is a woman her fate is even worse. What wonder that amid the constantly growing differences of party throughout the country and the growing number of dissidents, the multiplicity of bandit chiefs, the robbery of the people and the exploitation of the property of the nation, many classes throughout Mexico are lifting up beseeching hands to the United States and crying aloud, "Come over and help us!"

Unfortunately the various leaders of the different parties have been teaching the people that the United States wants to annex their land and that any interference on the part of this nation means the extinction of Mexican nationality. The majority of the people believe that; yet every day sees attempts at flight from Mexico to the United States on the part of large bodies of the peons. Mexico is suffering from internal divisions. What she needs is a central authority that will bring chaos out of her confusion.

NEED OF GOOD ROADS

More than 3000 people in Southern California are working for the good roads cause. They are at present centering their attention on the getting of good roads throughout this state and also the continuance of these roads by neighboring states so that there will be a fine system of highways that will open up and develop the Southland. This is a most laudable object. No state or country has ever been developed without good roads. To this day the roads built by the Romans remain as the natural highways through Europe and their grades and turns are as well built as any modern engineer could have constructed.

In their advance through any new country the Romans who were always thorough in their preparations for the absorption of a country into the Roman empire the moment they had conquered the people set to building highways. These enabled them to hold the land as nothing else could have done. The greatest discipline and the greatest courage could make but little progress in the midst of a swamp or an impenetrable forest.

One of the outstanding historical incidents in the history of the Roman empire is the destruction of Varus' legions in the Teutoburg forest, when Hermann enticed the unwary Roman general to leave the highways and the ordered discipline of a Roman march for the pathless forests and swamps. The Romans perished almost to a man there.

In modern times the saving of a nation may depend on its automobile highways. It was the good roads of France and her automobiles and autobuses that saved Paris from investment by Von Kluck in the beginning of the war. The auto would have been useless without the good roads. Thousands of autos hourly hastened along the fine French highways and speedily placed an army of several hundred thousand on Von Kluck's flank and had the British only been able to complete the encircling and have closed the gap Von Kluck and his army would have been taken.

That is an instance of what may be needed some day in the United States. There is always the possibility of war and with war comes the possibility of invasion at some part of the immense Atlantic and Pacific seaboard. With good roads it would then be possible to throw a formidable army, if we had it, against the invader and drive him out. Without the roads the defense of the country would be difficult and it might easily be the case that an enemy invading from the Pacific might land an army of 300,000 men long before the United States soldiers could get within striking distance. Once landed the task of driving the invaders out would be quite difficult and as Homer Lea points out in his instructive book "The Valor of

BACK TO NATURE

Nature sets us the example of optimism. There is nothing pessimistic about nature. Its promises are all sunshine, fresh air, health, growth, beauty, blossom, life and happiness, and it fulfills these promises and makes good. Live, love, laugh and be healthy, sensible and happy is what nature says we all ought to do.

SALESMANSHIP

The contractor who is not a fluent talker, or good "mixer" is apt to feel at a disadvantage when talking to his prospective customers. One such makes it a point to write down all the details he can think of regarding each customer and his work, and to list every item about the work, which may form a topic of conversation. A little study on each topic soon gives him a "line of talk" no salesman would be ashamed of. His language is more or less technical, which impresses the owner better, but he is always ready to cover each subject in detail. His study had helped him in his work also and he is always on the lookout for new subjects. His readiness has given him something of a reputation as an authority, and as he is careful to make only accurate statements, without having to qualify them by guesses, he is frequently sought to settle disputes and arguments. He finds his store of knowledge of use in his business as well as a means of increasing it even while he is passing it on to others.

DAILY SALUTE TO THE FLAG

I come with a full heart and a steady hand to salute the flag that floats above me—my flag and your flag—the flag of the Union—the flag of the free heart's hope and home—the Star-Spangled Banner of our fathers—the flag that, uplifted triumphantly over a few brave men, has never been obscured, destined by the God of the universe to waft on its ample folds the eternal song of freedom to all mankind.

Personals

Mrs. O. A. Wilson of Omaha, Nebraska, is visiting her sister, Mrs. H. C. Smith of 1641 Stocker street, Casa Verdugo.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Keleher, 228 North Louise street, were guests on Sunday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Johnstone at Balboa.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hale of 1211 North Brand Boulevard spent Saturday night and Sunday with friends at Long Beach and Seal Beach.

Miss Carol Willisford who is attending Pomona college at Claremont spent Sunday in Glendale with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Willisford.

Mrs. George Mills of 414 South Louise street, had as house guests Saturday and Sunday, Miss Forris, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. G. Mills of Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Evans and daughter, Catherine, who for two months had been visiting relatives in London, Ken., returned to their home at 113 Orange, Glendale, Sunday.

For some reason not yet explained to The Evening News the Single Tax and Anti-Single Tax discussion which was planned to be held this evening at the Chamber of Commerce rooms has been called off.

Freeman Kelley of Kelley & McElroy, left Saturday for San Diego where he will spend a few days. He will visit his relatives in La Jolla and will also visit the large nurseries in San Diego and the expositoin gardens.

Dr. E. H. Willisford, pastor of the First Congregational church, is at Santa Ana attending the annual meeting of the Los Angeles association of Congregational churches. Dr. Willisford is registrar of the association.

Mrs. T. J. Keleher, 228 North Louise street, entertained with a three-course luncheon Friday, the following guests being present: Mrs. John Reed, Mrs. Russell Grundy, Mrs. Roy Bowles, Mrs. Fred Grundy, Mrs. W. Holman, Mrs. A. Webber, Mrs. C. B. Wilde and Mrs. Homer Lockwood.

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the First Presbyterian church and Elder John Horsch leave this evening for Berkeley via the Southern Pacific. They go to represent the Glendale church at Synod which convenes in the northern city this week and will return Saturday morning.

Miss Agnes Frostick was tendered a reception at the home of C. L. Peckham, 245 North Central avenue Saturday evening in the course of which she was presented with a very handsome prayer book, by a number of her friends formerly associated with her in the work of St. Mark's Episcopal choir.

Dr. and Mrs. Colin Cable, 755 South Columbus avenue, were guests Saturday evening at a card party at the home of Mrs. Grover Cable, Los Angeles. Among the guests were Mayor Woodman of Los Angeles, the mayor's sister, Mrs. Leighton, and Mr. Leighton and Mr. and Mrs. Christiana Timmer.

Remember the teachers reception Tuesday, October 17. This is an annual affair. We owe our teachers our most loyal support. There will be special music, an excellent male quartet has been secured, who will give several selections. Coffee and cake will be served. This will be a social event. Come and get acquainted with the teachers.

The Rev. R. W. Mottern, Mrs. Mottern, Elizabeth Mottern and Dorsey Mottern, motored to Long Beach Saturday, where they attended the district synod of the Lutheran church of California, which is holding its annual convention there. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Imbler, 1416 Lomita avenue also motored to Long Beach on Monday morning to attend the district synod.

Dr. and Mrs. Colin Cable of 745 South Columbus avenue, entertained with a three-course luncheon Saturday in honor of Mrs. Austin Constantine of New Orleans. The guests were Mrs. Fickessen, Miss Natalie Fickessen, Mrs. Harry Charlton, Mrs. Fannie Charlton, Mrs. Grover Cable and Mrs. L. V. Ashton. After dinner Mrs. Grover Cable entertained the party with two readings.

Mrs. E. H. Willisford wishes to make a correction of an item of news in Saturday's paper. The Penny social is put on by the two Gleaner classes of the Congregational Sunday school. The two splendid teachers of those classes—Miss Emma Adams and Miss Vantyne Smith—have charge of the social and with everyone of the twenty-five girls in the classes work hard to make it a success. The mothers of the girls and other friends are glad to assist in every way possible.

Professor Raymond's lecture of October 13, the last of the course, was the best of the three given. The vivid description of Scotland and the splendid pictures of the famous scenery of the noted cities, the castles, etc. were very interesting and instructive. He then reminded us after he had shown a full size picture of Mary, Queen of Scots, that notwithstanding her many trials in life, that her descendants had always after her death, occupied the throne.

Mrs. Ida Mengensdorf of Beaumont, Cal., is spending a month with Mrs. R. C. Newton of 308 Belmont St.

Mrs. E. B. Wyman of 1326 North Maryland will be hostess to the members of the Foothill club on Friday, October 20.

The program committee for the County Christian Endeavor convention which is to be held in Glendale next March has been appointed.

James Carter who is employed in the Showalter barber shop left Saturday evening with four or five of his companions on a quail hunting trip.

Mrs. R. C. Newton of 308 Belmont street has on her Jackson street property a specimen of the beautiful and rare red eucalyptus that is in full bloom just at present.

Dr. and Mrs. S. D. Treible formerly of Chicago have taken up their residence at 439 South Adams street, Glendale. Dr. Treible is engaged in business in Los Angeles.

Only fifteen days until November 1, Glendale Evening News booster day. Every day from now until then will be considered a booster day, but November 1 will be the climax day.

A meeting of the Los Angeles Press association will be held in the private dining room of the Union League club, corner of Hill and Second, Los Angeles, this evening, Monday, at 6 o'clock. Jay Randall is the secretary of the association.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB

Tomorrow is San Fernando Valley Reciprocity day at Burbank. A fine program has been prepared, the city especially decorated and the federation officers will be present. All Glendale club women are cordially invited and it is hoped that many will attend. Take the Burbank car leaving the Pacific Electric station in Los Angeles at 1:50 p. m., or join one of the several auto parties being arranged. Mrs. Frederick Baker, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones and Mrs. Blake Franklin will drive their cars to Burbank and any member of the club wishing to go should phone one of these ladies.

BIRD AND FLOWER CLUB

Eighteen children and four adults spent Saturday afternoon first at the residence of Mrs. E. Eckman, 1621 Burchett, where lunch was eaten and afterwards along the banks of the river. These nature trips prove a constant source of enjoyment to the members and friends of the Bird and Flower club, and are eagerly looked forward to by young and old. Mrs. Ella Richardson of 805 Central avenue, Glendale, has kindly invited the club to meet at her house next Saturday, and to eat luncheon on her tennis court. Members are asked to bring note books as a definite course of bird study will be begun next Saturday.

SOUTH PASADENA MAN DEAD

W. H. Lowry, of 1133 Fairview avenue, South Pasadena, assistant to Chairman R. W. Pridham, of the county board of supervisors, died very suddenly Sunday. Mr. Lowry had a large circle of acquaintances in Glendale. His death was due to a complication of ailments which culminated in heart trouble. He was taken ill while talking to his children and lived only half an hour after his seizure. He leaves a widow, a nine-year-old daughter and a six-year-old son.

NUMBER FIVE AMENDMENT

There will be a meeting at the High school auditorium Wednesday evening, October 18 at 8 p. m., to discuss the Single Tax amendment to be voted upon November 7. Herman Kuehn of Los Angeles will give the principal address. Objections will be answered and open discussion invited at the close of the address. The only hindrance to a big majority for this amendment is a lack of a full understanding of its great benefits to the people of California.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Miss Geraldine Katharine Keleher, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Keleher, 228 North Louise street, entertained a number of her little friends at a birthday party on Saturday, when she celebrated her third birthday. The youthful guests were Lucille Wilde, Jano Andrews, Helen Andrews, Vera Lockwood, Esther Wintersgill and Edith Wintersgill. After luncheon the party was taken to the matinee at the Palace Grand.

NOTICE

The Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale will receive bids until 7:30 p. m., of Thursday, October 26, 1916, for twenty-four one-light cast iron standards to be made in accordance with plans and specifications for said standards on file in the office of the city engineer of Glendale.

The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.
By order of the Board of Trustees.
Dated this 16th day of October, 1916.
J. C. SHERER,
43t2Mon Clerk.

WEATHER FORECAST—Cloudy tonight and Tuesday; probably heavy fog along the coast; westerly winds.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mrs. Vivian R. Webb wishes to announce that her teaching has reached the proportions where she is obliged to have an assistant.

Miss Merle Ingham, Mrs. Webb's cousin, has recently arrived from Des Moines, Ia., and is prepared to undertake this work. Miss Ingham was a piano pupil of Mrs. Webb for seven years and thoroughly understands her methods. She has especially fitted herself for teaching beginners by the most approved system. It is of the utmost importance that this foundation work be done thoroughly and in a manner to interest the youngest pupil. Charming songs are given to be sung with the first exercises. Ear training, a simple harmony and written exercises are used.

Miss Ingham's pupils will be brought to Mrs. Webb from time to time for suggestions and they will be permitted to play on Mrs. Webb's pupil recital programs. For further information call at 114 South Maryland or phone Glendale 768-W.

QUARTET OF HUNTERS

Trustee C. H. Henry of Tropico, F. D. Silvius, R. P. Glenshaus and Julian Bennett formed a quail hunting quartet Saturday and Sunday in the Elsinore regions. Their success was the limit.

BURBANK

Trustees In Session

Complaints against the proposed boulevard lighting system for San Fernando road were heard at a special meeting of the Burbank city trustees at the city hall Thursday night. It is understood that the improvement will be made regardless of the protests.

The new city hall building was accepted at the regular meeting of the board Tuesday night and Contractor P. J. Farley's work was considered well done by the officials who had inspected the work. A committee was appointed for the purchasing of furnishings for the new hall. Trustees Forbes and Pollock were named as the committee.

Occupancy of the city hall will be deferred for a week on account of its lack of furnishings. The trustees will meet in the old city hall for a week or more. City offices will be moved during the coming week. The city jail and fire department have already been installed in the new building.

Two ordinances were turned over to the board by the city attorney for their first reading. One has to do with the salary of the health officer and the other is for public safety in prohibiting the sale of fireworks or blank cartridges in the city.

Numerous bills were allowed by the trustees. These demands will be published next week.

$10,000 Residence On Ranch

James P. Jeffries, contender at one time for the fistic honors of the world, has accepted plans for an eleven room residence to be erected on his ranch property near here at an estimated cost of $10,000 or more. The ranch house will be a model.

Since purchasing his 110 acre San Fernando valley dairy ranch, Jeffries has been steadily improving the property with modern buildings. According to local people who have visited the property, it is one of the most thoroughly equipped in the United States.

Principal M. M. Livingston and Athletic Coach E. R. Pine of Burbank High attended the meeting of the Valley athletic association at Van Nuys Thursday afternoon, where arrangements were made for the year's athletic schedule.

At a meeting of the High school student body meeting Wednesday afternoon the Ceralbus staff was appointed for the year. The Ceralbus, which is the school's annual magazine, will be edited by Ethel Pettit this year while Sidney Engin will be the manager.

The first basketball game of the season for Burbank will be staged next Friday afternoon when Burbank High will play Hollywood High a practice game. Coach E. R. Pine reports the Burbank five as being "twins." He has the material for two good teams in the field.

Baseball Team Disbands

After receiving a defeat from the Echo Park baseball club last Saturday afternoon, the Burbank baseball team disbanded for the season. The score was 2 to 1 in favor of the Park boys. The rainy season, poor attendance, and an insufficient number of good players caused the disbanding of the team.

The W. C. T. U. of Burbank have installed a unique window display in a storeroom window in the Marion hotel block on San Fernando boulevard. The evils of intemperance are vividly shown in the many illustrations which are placed in the window. Headquarters were maintained until last Saturday night to insure a strong dry vote from Burbank and vicinity.

The ladies of the Burbank Episcopal guild will hold a pie sale in a Marion hotel store room Halloween morning.

Dr. E. H. Thompson and party left this Friday night for a hunting trip in the mountains near here.

Four new members were taken into the Episcopal guild at its meeting in the parlors of Hotel Marion, last Wednesday afternoon.

HOMES AND SCHOOLS

CHILDREN SHOULD BE TAUGHT OBEDIENCE, LAW, ORDER AND LOVE FOR ALL

The following paper was read by Mrs. Ella W. Richardson at the meeting of the Pacific Avenue Parent-Teacher association's meeting, on Thursday, October 12:

There is a bundle of delight bound up in the sweet word "Home."

The word is typical of comfort, love, sympathy and all other qualities that constitute the delights of social life.

The social well-being of society rests on our homes and schools. What are the foundation stones of our homes and schools but woman's care and devotion?

A good mother is worth an army of acquaintances, and a true-hearted, noble-minded sister is more precious than the "dear 500 friends."

Those who have played round the same doorstep and basked in the same mother's smiles, are bound by a sacred tie that cannot be broken.

Every woman has a mission on earth. There is "something to do" for everyone—a household to put to order, a child to attend to, some one to befriend. That soul is poor, indeed, that leaves the world without having exerted an influence that will be felt for good after she has passed away.

Home is the sanctuary, here woman appears in her true glory. Here she can teach her children to be useful in all directions. With our schools today boys and girls can have a thorough education. Mothers should teach the girls to cook nourishing meals. Teach them to wash, iron, darn stockings and make their own clothes.

Teach them that only those economic who spend less than they receive, and that all those who spend more must become poor. Teach them that a gingham dress paid for, dresses one better than a silk one with debts. If they have had this kind of instruction and have profited by your teachings you need have no fears for their future.

My idea of home is that it should be a retreat, a place of rest from the cares of business life. With well-trained children and a good, quiet home what greater reward can man have for energies spent in his daily duties.

A home should be restful. Business wearies and at the end of the day the nerve force of hard workers is greatly reduced. The home that can provide rest is always attractive. It may be plain and rude, or elaborate and costly. In either case, if it meets the unexpressed wants of a tired nature it is home. But if the old cares yield to new and the irritations of business merely give place to other annoyances at home, it is not a place of rest. The art of making home-like is the best that a wife can possess. A household well trained in the world to the weary and careworn husband.

Let us all be thoughtful and useful. Voice only good things worth repeating. Let us be obedient in keeping our smallest promise, thus teaching our children obedience, law, order and love for all. These four attributes are one harmony.

PROFIT OR SERVICE?

be accomplished when the people possess the means of promoting community life, and service is substituted for profits.

The American who has been indifferent to the private ownership of public utilities, is becoming alert to the impropriety of the private ownership of public officials. * * * Municipal services have not the sharp pecuniary measurement of private business, but they establish a standard of serving the consumer unknown to private industry. The municipality excels in the quality of service and its extension to people whose small demand or remote place of residence would cause them to be overlooked by business.

The tax payer must be educated to see that dividends can be paid in life as well as in money—* * * Municipal ownership for purposes of revenue and service is on the eve of its greatest expansion in the United States. As the spoils system is giving way to business administration, so will the latter be succeeded by Democratic service. * * * Public ownership provides for the coming generation and thus fulfills the community's law of life.

I also quote from the work "Modern Cities" on this subject:

"In European cities, public ownership of public utilities is the rule, and private or corporate ownership of public utilities, the exception. One can take a trip through Italy, Switzerland, Germany and France without riding on any but state-owned railways, and in most of the towns through which the traveler will pass he will find the street car service, as well as the gas and electric service, entirely owned and managed by the public. He will also find the telephone and telephone service in the hands of the people. The success of public ownership in the cities of continental Europe is no longer questioned. In most of such cities, no other method of management of public utilities would be considered. While public ownership has not always brought progress and efficient management, it is safe to say that, as a rule, it has given much better satisfaction than private ownership. European cities that once adopt ownership never revert to private ownership. * * * Germany leads the world in the management of its public utilities, and it is not improbable that public ownership has had much to do with the splendid development that has taken place in recent years in German cities. The Germans have acquired the habit of working out all their problems upon scientific principles. They study methods, devices and plans, and do not hesitate to adopt those that prove most worthy. They are imbued with a high ideal of civilization, and place the public good above private advancement. The scholar, the engineer, or superintendent is willing to serve the state at a reasonable salary and finds his reward in the satisfaction derived from promoting the public good. * * * The progress of society is promoted mainly by the conscious effort of men and women. If we want to make our cities better, we cannot do it by sitting still and permitting things to go as they will. If we want better cities, we must plan and work to make them better. We no longer look for God to send fire from heaven to destroy evil, or to send a heavenly visitor to cure human ills. We may pray for better cities, but we must answer our own prayers if we expect them to be answered. Neither can we trust to the evolution of things to bring about civic betterment. There is no doubt a force in the world working for righteousness, but this force is the God within us that prompts us to do the right thing. Thus, while it is true that destiny plays a part in social advancement, we today prefer to believe that our destiny is in our own hands and this belief harmonizes with the facts of experience."

The history of ancient civilizations shows us that when the large cities became corrupt, it was only a short time until the nations of which they were vital centers were destroyed and their civilization swept away.

We, here in California, are now building for the future. Where at present there are only a few hundreds, in the not distant future there will be thousands upon thousands.

Italy with no greater area and no more farming land than the state of California, supports a population of over forty million people.

While we are only humble workers in the municipal field, yet to have a clear perception of fundamental principles, enables us to help our municipalities to establish correct policies in this early formative period of their existence, that will strengthen their municipal life and greatly benefit those who come after us.

There is, I grant, another side to this question. I received for several years a large monthly magazine devoted to showing the failure of municipal ownership, especially of electric lighting plants. My own conclusion, however, is that municipal ownership under anything like fair conditions, is a demonstrated success. The exceptions are mainly where the private corporations themselves have resorted to every device known to shrewd business men and high priced lawyers to make it a failure. This is the struggle going on today in Los Angeles.

The battle for democracy in industry has a good start and will never stop until the victory is won for human life to disstate social conditions instead of the holders of special privileges and the owners of property.

The next field of activity I wish to discuss with you for a few minutes, is one bearing directly on social welfare.

In nearly all of our California towns, both large and small, there is a lack of getting together and coming in touch with the other fellow. We are segregated in small groups made up of "my church," "my lodge," "my club," and so on, without any common ground where all can meet and after full and frank discussion, work out a municipal policy or program, based upon a composite opinion of the whole community.

It is for this reason that many a splendid plan for municipal improvement, when submitted to a vote of the people, goes down to defeat with consequent discouragement and lack of interest on the part of some of the most active workers for civic betterment.

The remedy for this condition is to work out the social center idea, first by means of opening the school houses for this purpose, and later by having a municipally owned civic center, where the people can assemble in their own auditorium and hear local problems discussed in a free and open forum from all view points.

The schools of California, especially our highschools, manual training and polytechnic schools, as well as the grade schools are in many sections of the state doing a most wonderful work in providing recreation, training and educational facilities, not only for the young but for grown-ups as well, who wish to take advantage of the opportunities given.

Let a little more of this same social spirit, of which these schools are splendid examples, enter into the work of our board of trustees of sixth class towns and their appointive officers, as well as that of our larger towns. What is needed to accomplish this is the vision of what can be accomplished by means of the great power now largely latent and unused in our municipal organizations, and then the application of the driving force of enlightened public spirit, to make this vision a reality.

It would certainly give more vitality to our municipal life and overcome apathy and lack of interest on the part of the general public, now so prevalent, if our municipalities would either directly, by action of their legislative body, or indirectly, by means of providing committees, boards, special officers or other appointees, take up this social welfare work.

Every community has its special needs.

In a general way, this work should include the establishment of gymnasiums and athletic fields, public play grounds and parks, public baths, and swimming pools and other means of recreation and improvements of child life.

The public dance hall, pool hall, blind pig and saloon stand ever ready to reach out and grab our growing boys and girls and drag them down and degrade them. Let the municipality take the lead in providing uplifting, healthful influences to counteract these evil ones and the municipality will then be rendering the highest public service.

It need not stop here. Too often, life in small towns is barren, dull and uninteresting. Let the municipality help to provide lectures by experts on different subjects of social interest and importance. The municipalities of California, especially the resort towns, are realizing more and more the importance of good music as an attractive feature. Other towns are giving folk dances and civic pageants, and even theatrical performances. Loan exhibits of beautiful pictures can be made and interpretive talks given, explaining them.

Let us also come together at least once a year and have a great communal meal like the Greeks of ancient Sparta. As Howe says, in his work above cited:

"For the first time in history, the great gains of science and industry, the economic and industrial possibilities of the city, are open to conscious social direction and control by the people. And under this new democracy the city will be able to develop a life that has had no prototype in history."

Zueblin in his recent book on "American Municipal Progress" in reference to the public lecture course under municipal auspices, says:

"The public lecture system now in existence for a quarter of a century, has resulted in (1) Continuation of systematic study (2) Americanization of immigrants (3) Improvement of sanitation and health, (4) Increased interest in the city's government, (5) The formation of people's forums for discussion of social and economic questions, (6) Greater efficiency and earning power, (7) Appreciation of art and science museums, (8) Improved reading taste of the people, (9) Wider and larger interest in the finer things of life.

It has been still more remarkable in persuading men to attend lectures, whether because they are free or in a public building, the percentage of men in attendance is much higher than at other serious lectures."

In a review of the social center work of municipalities, he says:

"The evolution of the social center has developed thus far the following functions: A lecture center, a recreation center, a parents' center, a local art gallery, a branch public library, a motion picture theater, a political forum, a polling place, a civic secretary's office and an employment bureau. It was logical and easy for the lecture center to grow into a place of recreation, providing for debates, dramatics, music, dancing, civic, literary and home making clubs and athletics. * * *

Grand Rapids employs a supervisor of social centers and not only directs the six centers in grade schools, but has charge of the boys' athletics and play grounds. The activities include choruses, gymnastics, sewing classes for mothers, dramatics, minstrel shows, boxing matches, debating societies, illustrated lectures and motion pictures. * * * Kansas City has opened centers in seventeen buildings and Milwaukee has voted by referendum over $80,000 for one year's social center work through a 2-10 of a mill tax. Eight Milwaukee social centers include pool and billiard tables in their equipment. A school in Beverly, Mass., possesses a bowling alley. * * * Life becomes freer as the interests multiply that can be paid for out of the common fund."

He mentions that Biggs, Cal., is one of a number of communities running a motion picture theater for educational purposes.

Mr. "Old Citizen" at about this stage, rises up and says: "Yes, but where is the money to come from for all these new fangled notions? They'll cost too much."

Here is the answer:
If you pay taxes (except dog tax or license tax) you own real estate. The value of real estate in cities and towns depends upon population and environment. The larger the town, as a rule, the more your real estate is worth.

The more beautiful your streets—the better your water supply, the more reasonable your public utility rates—the more enjoyable, as a place to live, the better facilities for your children to grow into perfect men and women, the more people you will attract to settle in your town.

What does this mean? It means higher real estate values, higher rental values and more ability to pay taxes. For every dollar you get in the way of increased real estate values, you only give back to the community, in the form of higher taxes, a few cents.

It pays financially, morally and spiritually to raise better men and women, to improve the standard of living in the community and for the municipality to lead in serving the people in all that contributes to the conservation of human life.

The man or woman with the social vision, inspired with the spirit of human brotherhood and willing to sacrifice self on the altar of service, must supply the power to make the city beautiful a reality.

Let us then, in dealing with municipal affairs, help work out the destiny of man to have dominion over the earth that he may improve, beautify and adorn his life.

As said by Dr. E. Munsterberg, one of the heralds of this new movement in municipal life:

"When we no longer divide the members of the community into the rulers and the ruled, but regard all as comrades in the good old sense of the word, then only do we think socially and the community which discharges its obligations in this sense will be carrying on communal social policy."

The sovereignty, or right to rule, belongs to the people and the dawn of a new day is breaking in the east in which people will realize that the right to rule is synonymous with the duty to serve.

SUNLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Adams, Sr., returned from their trip to San Diego and other places and report a splendid time.

Mr. J. Johnson of Claremont motored over to Sunland to look after his lemon ranch. He has the prospect of a fine crop of lemons.

Miss Minita Huse attended the Christian Endeavor City Convention in Los Angeles last week.

The Ladies' Aid met with Mrs. Anna Thomas Thursday afternoon. A goodly number was present and a social afternoon enjoyed. Next meeting October 19, at the home of Mrs. Thomas.

Mrs. E. T. Lancaster and Miss Menita Huse went to Pasadena Wednesday as delegates from the Sunland church to the Baptist convention.

Now is a good time to get the weeds down. Let Sunland have a house-cleaning; it needs it badly. Plant winter garden on the vacant lots.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Freeman are the proud parents of a baby girl who came to their home Tuesday night.

Mrs. Alice La Master of Long Beach is spending a few weeks with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. C. Harding.

L. R. Paxton of the Supervisors' office, with his family motored to Sunland the 8th, calling at the homes of Capt. T. G. Cushman and L. T. Rowley.

Ralph Bryant of Tujunga Canyon, who went to the hospital recently for operation, following an auto accident some months ago, will soon be out again as he is making rapid recovery.

J. T. Fitzgerald visited Sunland Tuesday. His plans for beautifying his ranch promise great things in the near future.

The regular meeting of the trustees of the Monte Vista Valley Chamber of Commerce was held October 9 at the Library rooms.

The features of the meeting were the endorsing of a petition to the City Council of Los Angeles in regard to Lincoln avenue beyond Tujunga Terrace and the approval of the report of the committee on the Foothills Valley Federation.

The members elected to represent the local body were E. F. Lancaster, who will also be a vice president; A. Adams, Jr., Wm. Haffinger, S. D. Percey and L. T. Rowley.

The Foothills Valley Federation was launched very auspiciously on Friday, October 6, at Crescenta's beautiful new auditorium, when C. M. Ashby of Tujunga, efficient, courteous and a thorough parliamentarian, was elected president, and P. H. Johnson of La Canada, whose experience highly fits him for the position was elected secretary. Mr. Nettleton of Crescenta was elected first vice president and A. Adams, Jr., treasurer. The first regular meeting will be held at Sunland on November 13, when special features aside from the regular programme will be presented.

The Park puts on a neat appearance with its fence repaired, papers cleaned up etc.

Mr. Philip Johnson moved his family to Ingleswood this week.

Mr. Geo. Ingersol surely knows how to raise fruit. He brought a quince for us to see which weighed one pound and nine ounces.

Mrs. Cunningham and daughter have returned to their home in Pasadena after a summer outing in the Big Tujunga canyon.

Mrs. Geo. Edgley has been very ill the past week, but is now able to be out again.

Encouraging Thrift In Children

A practice fast gaining in popularity with thoughtful parents is that of starting a Savings Account for their children. Such accounts can be opened in the child's name or in the parent's name "in trust" for the child.

The wisdom of this is evident. The child is encouraged to save, and deposits made regularly quickly accumulate to a material sum.

We solicit accounts of this nature and pay interest at 4 Per Cent per annum, compounded semi-annually.
